Database is a collection of information in an organised manner. It can be easily accessed, manaqed and revised. It mostly contain records or files.